LIFTING OF SECRECY VEIL IS DEMANDED

Republicans Ask Sen- ators be Allowed to Tell of Meeting

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's denial that he looked upon the Rhine as America's frontier brought a Republican demand today that he let senators tell their version of what he said Tuesday at a secret conference on foreign affairs.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), one of the military committee members who attended the conference and pledged secrecy, made the demand after the president had disputed some accounts of the meeting and had accused some legislative and newspaper owned agitators of misrepresenting his point of view.

Immediately after the conference, word leaked out that Roosevelt had told the senators that America was selling military airplanes to France because helping democratic nations of the world was part of the present American foreign policy. One senator said he understood the president to have said that America's frontier was now the Rhine, but some others denied he made such a statement.

Furious Reaction.

The press in Germany and Italy reacted furiously to the first reports of Tuesday's meeting, Italian papers making such bitter personal attacks on the president that the United States embassy in Rome asked the Italian government yesterday for an explanation. And congressional critics cried out that the president was leading the country along the road to war.

At his press conference yesterday Roosevelt stamped as a "deliberate lie" the report that he had talked of the Rhine as this country's frontier.

The Nazi-controlled press in Germany refused to accept Roosevelt's explanation that the report he had said this country's frontier was on the Rhine was a lie.

German Comment.

"Intrinsically it is of small importance whether the president actually used those words," said Lokal-Anzeiger. "He must have meant something like it or else American papers could hardly have been so unanimous on the subject."

"Moreover, the sale of warplanes to France speaks with a sufficiently clear voice."

The Italian I Popolo di Roma said flatly the president "said and later denied it that he would run to defend the Rhine."

In London, one diplomat commented that Roosevelt's "outspoken sympathy for democracies is enough at present to put a brake on the aggressive policies of Germany and Italy."

Meanwhile, one of the controversial plane sales to the European democracies—an order of 100 bombing planes for the British government—reached the stage of first shipments from New York.

At his press conference yesterday, Roosevelt declared, there had been no change in traditional American foreign policy and that there was not going to be any change.

The sun popped Feboold's corn, and the rain washed the sugar from the sugar cane into the corn fields and Feboold had sugared pop corn.

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERED TO END VACATION TOUR

Must Return From Canal Zone to Face Federal Grand Juries

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—U. S. Attorney Gregory F. Noonan said today a subpoena would be issued for Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas of Connecticut for questioning in connection with "federal matters, including the Coster-Musica case and the Manton case."

Thomas sailed yesterday aboard the Grace liner Santa Barbara for a vacation in South America. Noonan declined to elaborate on the nature of the information he expected to procure from Judge Thomas. He said he would be questioned by one grand jury investigating the affairs of the McKesson-Robbins drug concern, which was headed by the self-slain F. Donald Coster-Musica, and by another grand jury investigating the business interests of Martin T. Manton, who resigned as senior judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals early this week.

Thomas has been on the federal bench about 25 years, an appointee of President Wilson. For many years he has been active in Connecticut politics.

He sailed with Mrs. Thomas.

ORDER BEGAN DOWNFALL

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 4.—(AP)—A ruling by Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas of Connecticut, summoned by the justice department today to return immediately from a South American vacation trip, began a series of developments which led to the many-sided investigations into the affairs of McKesson & Robbins, Inc.

Judge Thomas, who is in his late sixties, last December appointed two temporary receivers for the large drug concern after Attorney Vincent W. Dennis of Hartford filed an equity receivership action in Federal court, which was dismissed later.

The action alleged waste and mismanagement and was followed soon after the unmasking of the firm's president, the late F. Donald Coster, as Philip Musica, an ex-convict and swindler.

FRANCO'S FORCES ENTER CITY NEAR FRENCH BOUNDARY

Last Major Stronghold of the Northeastern Prov- ince Falls

Perpignan, France, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Insurgent dispatches reported today that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Navarrese army corps entered Gerona, last major government stronghold in northeastern Spain, at 10:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m., C. S. T.)

Gerona, an old walled city and capital of a province of the same name, is only 25 airline miles and 36 miles by road from the French border. Figueras, temporary capital of the Spanish government, is 22 miles to the north.

The government's newest defense line was said to have been shattered and an advance to the frontier apparently was only a question of days.

Insurgent air squadrons heavily bombed the refugee-choked region along the border.

Offers Little Defense

Gerona, which was conquered by the Moors in the Eighth century and by the French in the 19th offered little more in the way of defenses than its crumbling walls and a few ruined fortresses on surrounding hills.

Both there and at Figueras insurgent air raids were taking a heavy toll, starting a new rush of refugees toward France from these war-crowded cities.

With the hundreds of refugees who reached the frontier were many wounded from Figueras, where first aid facilities were insufficient to cope with the estimated 150 dead and 200 injured in yesterday's terrific air bombardments.

Government officials were said to be evacuating the civilian population of Figueras to the open countryside.

San Quentin's Hunger Strike Is Ended Today

San Quentin Prison, Calif., Feb. 4.—(AP)—The last 133 convict hunger-strikers went off their diet of bread and water today to accept a prison menu of beef stew. They had demanded "more variety."

Warden Court Smith announced that the refusal to work or eat, which three days ago involved nearly 4,000 of the 5,263 inmates, was at an end and that the state prison routine was back to normal.

Prison officials said "five or six" convicts remained in solitary because their screams disturbed others.

Announcement that the strike was over came while Governor Culbert L. Olson was considering a demand, telegraphed from San Francisco by the Marine Fireman's Union, for a "sweeping investigation" of prison conditions.

The telegram addressed to the governor by the Marine Firemen urged him "for humanity's sake to intercede on behalf of the striking San Quentin prisoners and to see that the food and conditions accorded the prisoners are made tolerable."

Outstanding cause of the strike Wednesday was a revolt against "hush day" at the prison.

Warden Court Smith said the rebellion dwindled yesterday when guards went through the prison, a cell-block at a time and invited the men to have breakfast.

"SHE'S GOIN' TO FLOOD"

Cincinnati, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A cry as old as the river, "She's goin' to flood," rang through the vast Ohio valley today but echoed among people better prepared to fight the big stream's ravages.

From Pittsburgh to Cairo, the 981 miles from the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny to the Mississippi, the flood warning was sounded as melting snow and rain of a score of watersheds poured into the slowly-swelling Ohio.

Far up tributary streams lowland dwellers retreated to higher ground while authorities made ready to repair damaged or destroyed bridges and roads.

Rising streams had caused two deaths and four other persons were reported missing, all in West Virginia. Officials hoped to hold the toll far below that of previous floods, even if the river should top flood predictions.

96 Red Cross Highway Stations in Illinois

St. Louis, Feb. 4—(AP)—The American Red Cross mid-western headquarters reported today it had established 13 new highway emergency first-aid stations in Illinois in 1938, bringing the total in that state to 96.

These stations are manned by at least two volunteers, schooled in first-aid technique.

The Red Cross report said records showed there was an appreciable decrease in accidents in the vicinity of the first-aid stations. The Red Cross said the signs marking the stations apparently also served as "be careful" reminders to motorists.

Dies Is Given Top-Heavy Vote Of Confidence

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—

Backed by a top-heavy vote of confidence from the house, Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the committee on un-American activities proposed today to ferret out sources of "foreign propaganda that may get us into war."

The Texan said he would recommend that the committee divide its work into three departments, one of which would investigate foreign propaganda.

"We should look into this very important matter of foreign propaganda as it relates to war," Dies asserted, "find out its origin and determine where the money to finance it comes from and how much is being spent."

The other two divisions, he suggested, should investigate communists and fascists activities.

The house decided yesterday to extend the committee a year. Dies said he expected the accounts committee to recommend next week that the house vote $100,000 to finance the year's work.

Vociferous opponents fought continuation of the committee with charges that it had been unfair and impartial and had "smeared" innocent persons. But their bitterness outweighed their effectiveness, as was demonstrated by the 344 to 35 vote.

Dies admitted the committee had erred at times. But he told the house it would recognize those mistakes and "do everything within its power to continue a fearless, honest and complete investigation of what is a definite danger."

Seek Stronger Commercial Tie-Up With Brazil

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—

The arrival here next week of Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, was viewed by some officials today as foreshadowing aggressive United States efforts to strengthen commercial ties with South America.

Authorities have let it be known that conversations with Dr. Aranha would center around four principal points:

1. Finding a means of increasing American sales to Brazil where German business last year crowded the United States into second place.
2. Working out a cotton formula providing for some division of world markets. This undertaking if successful would be followed by efforts to arrange a conference of all cotton producing nations.

3. Resurveying the defense situation, probably with discussions of leasing old United States destroyers to Brazil for naval training purposes and of assisting American manufacturers to supply airplanes to Brazil.

4. Some form of financial assistance to Brazil, through a direct loan with congressional approval, credits to American merchants selling to Brazil, a formula to stabilize Brazilian currency, or some other means.

No secret has been made of the fact that Aranha would negotiate with Secretary Morgenthau in an effort to remove exchange restrictions hampering the sale of American goods in Brazil.

Reorganization Possible If Congress Holds O. K.

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—

A bi-partisan movement for a compromise government reorganization program gained headway in congress today.

Administration leaders said they were hopeful that a revised program could be enacted promptly with a minimum of controversy. They asserted that President Roosevelt undoubtedly would be willing to make concessions to avoid another defeat on the issue.

The house pigeon-holed the administration reorganization bill last year after it had been approved in the senate.

Senator McNary (R-Ore), the Republican leader, said he would be inclined to support a new program giving congress the power to veto any presidential orders which revamped or consolidated government agencies.

One of the chief objections voiced last year against Roosevelt's reorganization program was that it would give the chief executive discretionary power to reshuffle administration units and functions.

Senator Schwelmbach (D-Wash.), an administration supporter, said he felt confident a program could be enacted if congress held strings over any reorganization powers granted the president.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), who led the senate drive last year to make presidential reorganization orders subject to congressional approval, said there would be little difficulty in enacting a program with such a limitation.

Joliet Auto Dealers Held on Fraud Charge

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—

The December Federal grand jury yesterday returned an indictment charging Frank M. and David A. Henneberry, owners of a used car sales company in Joliet, with using the mails to defraud.

The indictment, returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, alleged the brothers had forged promissory notes and conditional bills of sale on cars they claimed to have sold. Then, the indictment charged, the brothers mailed the documents to the National Bond & Investment Company in Chicago to obtain loans estimated at $7,000.

Bonds were fixed at $2,500 each.

Indian summer is not connected with any particular month, but may occur all the way from September to December.

Plan Hearings On Judicial Redistricting Bills

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—

Local opposition to Circuit court redistricting, principally in the northern part of the state, was believed by legislative leaders today to have virtually doomed the Dixon-Gunning-Baker-Barr bill to reshape district lines according to population.

Hearings on the bill are scheduled Tuesday night before the Senate judiciary committee.

While the principal bill affecting 11 counties and setting up two additional districts appeared blocked, a separate Dixon-Baker bill changing only Whiteside county was conceded a better chance for adoption.

General Circuit Court redistricting was recommended by the newly-created legislative council after a survey indicated population growths in some areas had resulted in over-crowded court calendars.

A new district would be created by taking Lake and McHenry counties from the 17th district and forming the 18th district and the 19th district would be added by joining Madison, Bond, Washington and Clinton.

"One reason why local opposition to changes has developed is because existing political alignments would be disturbed," one legislator said.

Hearing on the Dixon-Baker bill to transfer Whiteside county from the 14th to the 15th circuit has been scheduled for Tuesday by Senator Harold G. Ward (D-Chicago), chairman of the judiciary committee.

Under the law governing redistricting, any changes must be made before the election this June or else the plan will have to be deferred until the next election year, in 1945. Actually any changes would have to be made before March because judicial conventions are held that month.

B. Rhodes. The observance is to be held Feb. 24 at Grace Evangelical church.

Mrs. C. B. Rhodes is to take the vice presidency of the society for the remainder of the year. She gave the scripture reading, and was assisted during the devotional period by the Rev. Mr. Barnett.

Mrs. H. W. Taylor, who prepared the program, read a short article, "The Kingdom of God." The program was as follows: "Christian Missions in India," Mrs. F. C. Sprout; "The Spread of the Word in India," Mrs. Charles Rice; a poem, Mrs. Taylor; Mrs. Don Anderson is pianist for the society.

Husbands of the members are to attend the next meeting, to be held in the church, preceded by a scramble supper. The Valentine refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Foreign Missions—Several dates important to members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church were announced at Thursday's meeting of the society at the home of Mrs. Henry Hey.

Mention was made of a World's Day of Prayer service to be held at Grace Evangelical church, Feb. 24; a district group meeting at Morrison, March 17; the annual Founder's Day service to be presented at the church March 2, when the auxiliary from the Fourth Street Methodist Episcopal church of Sterling will present the program. The date for another important service, the Thanksgiving program, will be announced later.

Mrs. Fred Hobbs, first vice president, presided. Mrs. Charles Wilford led the devotional service, with "The Kingdom of God" as the theme. Miss Estella Anderson read a short article, "Stewardship As I Know It," and Mrs. A. I. Hardy presented the study on India. Mrs. Powell read a letter from a nurse in training in Butler Memorial hospital, Baroda, India, who is supported by the local auxiliary.

A lesson on "India's Rural Millions" was given by Mrs. Howard P. Buxton. The lesson dealt with large schools, a new alphabet, sanitation and health, economic uplift, uplift of rural women, and the need of a Christian faith was stressed. Mrs. B. E. Jacobson and Mrs. H. A. Edwards sang a duet, "I Would That My Love," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Raymond Wagner.

Word from the Northwestern Branch, W. F. M. C. Quinlan, led the safety of the district missionary, Miss Dorothy Jones, stationed for many years in Chungking, present capital of China. Her school buildings, however, have been demolished by Japanese bombs.

Women's Auxiliary—Members of the Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary will be entertained at the home of Mrs. C. A. Mellott, 804 Chula Vista, at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Mrs. Mellott's co-hostesses include Mrs. L. G. Adams, Mrs. J. H. Kennedy, Mrs. Anna Moore, Mrs. I. B. Potter, Mrs. W. T. Terrill, and Mrs. Mary Brown.

Wesleyan Society—A patriotic program will be presented when the Wesleyan society of the Methodist Episcopal church meets at the church at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Louis Meppen's committee is to be in charge of the program, which is to be followed by a social hour and refreshments.

MY LITTLE GIRL

"Most of us here are fathers," said Senator Charles O. Andrews, of Florida, speaking in the Senate of the United States (so are most Forty and Eighters) "and I am sure that our sympathies go out to every father and mother who has lost a son or daughter through a ruthless and unnecessary traffic accident. A short time ago there appeared in the Eufaula, Alabama, Tribune, an editorial which I feel deserves a place in the Congressional record. I am going to read it. I wish it were possible to have this editorial printed on the front page of every newspaper in the United States, or else in some manner brought to the attention of all those who drive automobiles, in the hope that it would cause them to pause just a moment and not take that unnecessary chance which might cause the loss of life for some little boy or girl."

"Here is the editorial":
Today my daughter, who is 7 years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is Coot, sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved good-bye and started off to the hall of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her, the girl with yellow curls, and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head, and about the trees in the schoolyard, and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things tremendously vital, unimportant things; and then we studied spelling, reading, arithmetic — and then to bed.

She's back there now—back in the nursery sound asleep, with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm.

You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time; I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and please remember that children run from behind parked cars. Please don't run over my little girl.

TIME TO SMOKE HIM OUT

It is time for the United States Senate to smoke the President's foreign policy out of the hollow tree.

Potential soldiers and those who would pay the bills for the next war are entitled to know what that foreign policy is. This, Mr. Roosevelt himself often proclaimed proudly, is a democracy. The people elected Mr. Roosevelt President, but whatever mandate he saw in his majority was not a mandate to drag the United States into a war threatened by the asinine policies set up by the Treaty of Versailles. The United States Senate rejected that treaty and the people have approved that rejection. Are we to be asked to re-establish in Europe an alleged peace treaty that had caused nothing but discord and economic strife?

What mandate is Mr. Roosevelt obeying?
Mr. Roosevelt might say he is for peace in Europe as well as in the United States. He might say that by refusing to commit himself to a foreign policy he is keeping the dictators guessing, making them afraid to begin a war of aggression lest the United States throw all its might into the scales against them. He might, in a moment of confidence, explain that by pretending to favor the alleged democracies, he is keeping the dictators afraid. He might add that he really is in favor of freedom from foreign entanglements.

To that there is but one answer. He was once in favor of balancing the budget. He once favored economy and a reduction of 25 per cent in national expenditures. He once said the old-time saloon would not be permitted to return. He once said, "for the thousandth time" that he had not interfered and would not interfere in a local election except in his own state and district. He once implied scornfully that Mr. Hoover and the Republicans were in "control" of the Supreme Court. He—but what is the use? By his egregious policy of looking in one direction and rowing in another he has managed to do most of the things he said he would not do, and has failed to do nearly everything he said he would do.

If he has pledged himself secretly to preserve the peace by pretending to favor the peaceful democracies—beware! Mr. Roosevelt has the nation on the spot. He knows that as long as we are at peace we will criticize his foreign policy; but that as soon as a war is declared, no matter whether we agree with him or not, we will all bend every muscle to the task of winning; we will devote every dollar to the cause of victory.

He knows that if we get into a war he would be put forward for a third term. The cry would be "Don't change horses in the middle of the stream!"

No responsible person would charge Mr. Roosevelt with wanting to start a war in order to achieve a third term in office. Everybody knows that in the present European quarrel, which is likely to develop into a mighty crisis early in the summer, Mr. Roosevelt is not neutral. His own words and the ranting of his aides prove that. It is precisely like Mr. Roosevelt to imagine that because he hates Hitler and Mussolini, this whole nation wishes to go to war against them. He can be expected to imagine that we want our purses raided, our young men sent to Europe and our national debt increased by 50 to 75 billion dollars merely to destroy two monsters created by the selfish short-sightedness of the league powers and the enormous egotism of Woodrow Wilson.

It is time for Mr. Borah and other elder statesmen to take charge of our foreign policy and remind Mr. Roosevelt that this nation is not a tool to serve his personal likes and dislikes.

We may hate the dictators, but we are not responsible for their being. We might like to see them destroyed and peace and prosperity restored in Europe, but that should be done by those who created the dictators.

In Hollywood

BY PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
Hollywood—Shirley Temple is supposed to smoke a pipe in her new picture, Susannah of the Mounties. The script says so, anyway.

But you never can be sure about Temple scripts. During the filming of "Wee Willie Winkie" June Lang gave the Wonder Tot a sound spanking, but the sequence was cut out when the studio decided that people wouldn't like it. So there's no telling what will happen if Shirley smokes a pipe. The repercussions are likely to blast the incident right out of the story.

Camera Tricks With A Pipe

In the first place, though, let me convey Darryl Zanuck's assurance that even if Shirley appears to be smoking, she won't be, actually. A trick pipe with concealed tubes has been designed by Lou Witte, 20th Century-Fox's special-effects expert—and, incidentally, the man who staged the Chicago fire. A property man, crouched just out of camera range, will manipulate a couple of rubber bulbs, one of which will make the pipe draw and the other eject smoke from a tube taped to the off-side of the Marvel Mite's face.

At first, the script said that Shirley would smoke a pipe of peace with a little Indian boy, and on two occasions. The first time she'd get sick, and the second time he'd get sick. But it was realized that it would never do to permit the Wonder Child so quickly to condition herself to tobacco, so now it is determined that she shall get good and sick both times. Also, she does not smoke for the fun of it, but with a grim determination to politely observe the conventions of the Injun country.

Scout Captures A Redskin

The redskin in the case is 15-year-old Martin Goodrider, a Blackfoot. He reached Hollywood by way of the Eucharistic Congress in New Orleans and an excursion to New York City. A movie talent scout read of the Indian lad in Manhattan and went to select one for a picture role. Young Mr. Goodrider was chosen because of his voice; he sang a repertoire of Irish folk-songs taught him by a priest on the reservation.

Incidentally, Goodrider really smokes and really enjoys it. He smokes "twist," the untreated kind of tobacco which is more lethal than aromatic. With Miss Temple, he'll have to puff corn-silk or something.

Sindler Is a Lens Wizard

A lot of directors—Ray Gar-nett, William Wyler and Mitchell Leisen among them—make a practice of playing a bit in every picture they direct, but there is only one property man in Hollywood who has successfully got his name into every picture he has worked on. His name is Irving Sindler, and he has been on Samuel Goldwyn's payroll for years.

Almost throughout the production of "Wuthering Heights," Sindler could think of no way to get his name on the screen. He began to be pretty worried about it as he went ahead with his chores of providing props for the picture. Finally Wyler came to his rescue with a suggestion, and the day was saved. There is a scene in which Merle Oberon and David Niven walk through a church yard after their wedding ceremony. On one of the tombstones beside the path is a marker with the name, "Irving Sindler."

Ought To Be Incorporated
The prop man got his biggest personal break in "Stella Dallas." For that picture he put his name on a large sign on the "Irving Sindler Building." He likewise assumed ownership of a building in "Dead End." "Hurricane" was a problem because his name wouldn't have been appropriate on any of the store on the island. Finally, though, he stenciled it on a lot of packing cases which presumably contained merchandise.

"Marco Polo" just about licked him because there weren't any signs in English. But Sindler did the next best thing: he had his name translated, phonetically, into Chinese and inscribed on a banner which is visible in the city of the Genghis Khan.

Shortly after "The Lady and the Cowboy" went into production, Mrs. Sindler produced a baby boy. The proud prop-man papa thereupon printed a label which he pasted on the bottle of hair tonic used by Gary Cooper. The drug company name appeared rather prominently: "Irving Sindler & Son."

duced recently by the newly-formed farm bloc.

Not Unanimous

Senator Capper admits with a very smile that farmers themselves are far from united in their views. "Those farmers I talked with at Topeka certainly weren't in agreement. Most of them, I think, do want the AAA act of 1938 repealed. But one group—a small but noisy one—wants the government to stop trying to do anything at all for the farmer. A larger group wants some control of surpluses to keep prices from going down to far. Still others bitterly oppose production and marketing control, but do approve of the soil conservation program."

The senator remarks that the new farm program ought to be keyed to the family-sized farm. In too many cases, he believes, the AAA program has been a fine thing for the big landlord and the corporation-owned farm but a bad thing for the little fellow.

The senator is not irrevocably committed to all the details of the bill which the newly-organized farm bloc has brought in.

"I joined in sponsoring it because I want to see it brought before Congress," he says. "I want to see it examined and studied carefully. Maybe it isn't just what we're looking for. But it at least deserves our earnest study."

For, believes Senator Capper, something has to be done. For years, he remarks, at least two-thirds of all American farmers have operated at a loss. The present administration has tried to help; but, as he puts it, "they've made little or no progress." Like the others in the farm bloc, he believes some new approach must be tried; maybe the Frazier-Lemke proposal.

DAINGEROUS SERVICE

By GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

Peter Mallone: An adventurous young reporter.
Petroneila: His loyal sister.
Tony Lance: British agent.

Yesterday: Peter goes to Germany for two weeks. At a cocktail party, Petroneila meets Tony again and realizes there is no escape from loving him.

Chapter 16

NAZI PRISON
"It is very good to see you again, Petroneila. You're looking wonderfully well, and very, very attractive," he stood close to her, and spoke in a low voice.

"I'm glad to see you safely home again, Tony. After you left Rangoon," she admitted simply. "I used to read your accounts in the News. China must have been terrible."

"Yes. It still is. What are you doing in London?"

"Working," she told him. This time she was able to tell him about Peter. He smiled when she told him why she had refused to introduce him in Rangoon.

"The News—my paper!" he mused. "I seem to have heard his name from Rowdon. He's not, by any chance, the fellow who—" "Donkeys?"

"That was Peter!" They laughed. "Well, Rowdon regards him as hopeful. He told me so himself."

"I'm terribly glad. He really said hopeful?" Tony reassured her.

"Yes. Hopeful! Did you carry on running that canteen, Petroneila?" "Till the trouble ended," they talked about Burma, about his new job. He was vague. "I think it is a stroke of luck, Rowdon calls it, 'out of the frying-pan'."

But I think it should be extremely interesting. So it was also dangerous, thought Petroneila. She knew him, because she had to know.

"Who is that attractive girl in gray, that you were talking to by the fireplace, when I came in?" He turned, surprised.

"I don't know. Jane somebody or other. That's her husband with her, now, I believe. I'd only just met her. They've been in Shanghai."

Even in the rush of wonder and relief which she felt, Petroneila realized that although her happiness was relieved, this time, she had learned something invaluable. In the future, she would know what kind of clothes to buy.

"She looks charming." They were silent for a moment. She was so much afraid that he would leave first, that she put on her gloves.

"I must be going now. I have to catch a train for Victoria."

"I'll see you off. Have we time to walk through the park?" "Yes. There are plenty of trains."

He could not leave her, thought Petroneila, desperately, yet he would not say anything that mattered. They walked side by side, through the evening sunshine. The things they were saying had nothing to do with their thoughts. They walked apart.

Outside Victoria Station, he stopped, and bought her lilies of the valley from an old flower seller; they were pale leaved, beautiful.

He accompanied her on to the platform. He put her suitcase in the rack for her.

"You'll forgive me, if I don't wait till the train goes. I ought to be dining with somebody fairly important at this very moment."

"No, of course not. You must hurry," but she did not believe him.

Where There Is Trouble
"I'm leaving England tomorrow," he told her abruptly. "I may be abroad some time, again, so you see, Petroneila—"

Petroneila saw, perfectly, He and Peter, both abroad. She and James, left in England. She wondered if Tony even guessed at the existence of James. Anyway, it did not matter. She held out her hand. While he held it, then, she asked in a small, odd voice.

"Where, then, if ever, Tony?" His reply was his explanation for this parting.

"In London. Or anywhere there is trouble. So it must be London."

As she sat in her train, traveling fast towards Balfield, Petroneila felt her anger against him rise, then die again. He wasn't fair to her. He had strengthened the bondage, then left her once more.

He expected her to wait, faithfully, for ever? Yet, she did not blame him. He could not help himself. He had not said a single word to bind her. If she translated his thoughts for him, that was her fault. She was only nineteen.

Though she felt so old, she was young. This love concerned the happiness of her whole lifetime.

Brain Twizzlers

"THIS IS A NEW ONE ON ME"

Wasn't it worth while waiting, and letting fate take its course, if necessary, for a few years longer? And James. Why couldn't you love conveniently, sanely? She knew. "Tony is the last man on earth I would love, if I could choose." Petroneila tried, once more, to look into the opaqueness of her future. Suppose Peter succeeded in Germany? Her interests, through him, would be similar to Tony's own. Was that more than a coincidence? She could only wait and see, she supposed. She must put her trust in that odd thing which she called "hunch," and which Aunt Maisie called guidance, which told her she must wait, that she had no choice. "Anywhere there is trouble," she murmured, within her mind. Where would she and Tony Lance meet again?

Maisie Mason lay and watched the dawn break through the green venetian blinds of her bedroom. "After the night, cometh the morning," she thought, and twisted her thin, wracked body in a futile effort to escape from a pain from which there was no escape. The night had seemed endless, but now, increasingly every minute, it was morning. Birds were singing outside in the cold gray twilight. The scent of that garden, in which she would never work again, was borne to her on a wave of chill air through her open window. She wished the maid had not let the bird right down. She had meant to ask Peter to pull it up, halfway, before she said good night to her.

But she knew the view from this window so well, that she could content herself with imagining it. The tree tops, which looked like brown-green waves of the sea, would be reddened. The distant ribbon of the wet road, out of Balfield, would catch the light, shining like a silver river.

Maisie Mon wanted to see the dawn, but not urgently. There was time yet. Dr. Harris had said she might live for months, even for a year. That was why she had forbidden "yes," and think you were telling the truth. But would be lying, even to yourself. Prof. Walter Pitkin put the same question in this way: "What would you spend it for?" 200 women and 150 men made out long lists of what they would spend it for—houses, furniture, autos, travel, dresses, jewelry, everything on earth—but only six women and four men mentioned a single penny for self-improvement or education.

Answer to Question No. 1
1. Not many of them do. If they did there is no reason why we would not have national baseball, football and hockey leagues of women. Some women play golf marvellously well, but the vast majority play to be out with their men friends or enjoy the club associations or show their pretty sport clothes and the like. They rarely go in for blood as men do—and that is the only thing that makes a game very much fun.

Answer to Question No. 2

The Headlines
In order that Petroneila should not know the blessing of Dr. Harris' visits with their subsequent lull of pain, came as rarely as Maisie could bear. Even then, she had seen Petroneila looking at her, curiously. She had spoken quickly to dismiss suspicion.

"Our good doctor seems to drop in very often. A nice bill I shall have, for the luxury of being ill."

"He's such an old friend, Auntie. He is concerned at your being in bed all the time. How would it be if he came to get you out of the thought of anyone so energetic being ill?"

Sweet Petroneila! She should go back to work as soon as Rowdon's job materialized. Maisie determined that she would give up the light insurance company, to be with her. It was no use, and sheer selfishness, to keep her indefinitely at home. But her spirit ached for her continued companionship.

The days would seem very long, alone. But Petroneila had her troubles, too, and staying here gave her too much time to think about them. This love affair—that young man, Lance, who put himself and her in the first? How would it end? With James Randall? You could not tell. Patience was unnatural to youth. A little thing, an ultimatum from James, for instance, might cause her to break her allegiance to Tony Lance. And yet—"I never broke mine," thought Maisie.

At eight o'clock, the maid, Gertrude, brought Maisie Mason her tea, her letters, and the morning paper. The letters were bills and notes of kindly inquiry from her friends. She smiled, grimly. It was mail day. She was dying, but Pat had not troubled to write by return. She would see a warning to his daughter, not to lay her love at the feet of a man who did not want it. But, "I did not have a face and body like hers, and her way of moving, to help me," she said. Perhaps, Tony Lance, in his casual modern way, did love Petroneila?

Raising herself painfully on her pillow, Maisie Mason opened the waily News at the center page. She saw the photograph of Peter in a cricket shirt, laughing up at her. Trembling, she read the report right through before she called, towards the sound of running water in the bathroom.

"Petroneila!"

"Yes, Auntie—what is it?" She came, running in her blue dressing-gown. Her hair was shiningly neat, she was rosy with sleep.

"Peter is in the headlines the News. He seems to have made a complete fool of himself. They've put him in prison—"

"Prison! What for?" Petroneila seized the paper and stared at it. "His photograph," she breathed. "British journalist shot and imprisoned in Berlin!"

"They suspect him of spying. He attended a secret meeting he had no business to attend, on somebody else's ticket, and gave himself away by speaking German."

"How awful! What will happen to him?"

"The paper disclaims responsibility. They say he was on vacation, and not acting in any official capacity. They suggest, my dear, that he's harmless but over zealous in the interests of his journalistic career, and that since he speaks German very indifferently, he can't possibly have understood much that was said at the meeting."

Sour on Swing
Though Fifty-Second Street, the cradle and hotbed of swing, has provided us with more than ample "copy," we still regard that thoroughfare as a garish, tawdry alley. Can't help it, we're an ingratitude, but swing never fails to jar discordantly on our ears.

The most flagrant manifestation of current youth occurs among the patronage at the Paramount Theater, the mecca of all swing bands in the country. Not even highly-skilled psychologists who looked in these professional aberrations. Nor can we.

Pure in Heart
This ironical yarn was recounted over a Stork Club table the other evening. An official of the Prison Association was present and he was talking about the reformation work that his group attempts to do among convicts. The talk got around to Richard Whitney, now serving a term in Sing Sing, and this gentleman recalled a reply he had received once from Whitney, then the head of the Stock Exchange, to a plea for a contribution.

"I am not interested," read Whitney's response, "in crime or its many ramifications!"

Coward's Prejudices
When an interviewer questioned him about his loves and hates, this is how Playwright Noel Coward summed them up:

He dislikes puritanism, clams, big parties, the interior of the Paramount Theater, Italian furniture, tapoca pudding, amateurs, champagne and bad acting.

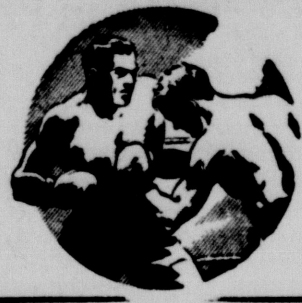

He likes suet puddings, the Temple of Heaven in Pekin, tabloids, Rachmaninoff's Concerto in C Sharp Minor, frosted chocolates, paper cigarette holders, 17 encores at the end of any of his first acts, Charlie Chaplin, arriving places and leaving places.

"The paper disclaims responsibility. They say he was on vacation, and not acting in any official capacity. They suggest, my dear, that he's harmless but over zealous in the interests of his journalistic career, and that since he speaks German very indifferently, he can't possibly have understood much that was said at the meeting."

BIG NEWS: TONY GALENTO ADMITS HIS WEAKNESS

Detroit, Feb. 4—(AP)—Heavyweight contender Tony Galento startled the sporting world today with the flat announcement that he has a weakness.

The rotund Orange (N. J.) bar-keep and National Boxing Association's No. 1 contender for Joe Louis' title made this surprising and unsolicited disclosure in his hotel room after he had flattened battle-scarred Natie Brown, of Washington, in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round bout last night.

"I can't fight no bums that won't stand up and fight," Galento confessed.

Two-ton Tony was referring to Brown, who visited the canvas 10 times before he finally stayed there after a roundhouse left to the ear.

Golden Gloves Prelims Start Monday Eve

EXCELLENT CARD OF BOXERS WILL BE OFFERED HERE

Sectional Fights Will Start at 7:30 O'clock Monday Night

There is little doubt that Dixon's sectional preliminaries to the Golden Gloves tournament will offer one of the best cards in the state here on Monday night when the bouts get under way at the high school auditorium.

The officials, as announced earlier in the week, will be: Jack Sharkey of Dixon and Buck Foley of Rochelle, referees; Cal Tyler, James Bales and "Butch" Mowrer, judges; E. L. Fulmer, timekeeper; and Fred Hofmann, announcer. Dr. E. S. Murphy will be the attending physician and George Kittingham of Rockford is to be the A. A. U. official in charge of the tournament.

It was announced today that, contrary to rumors, Kid Harms and Pete Hantz will be here for certain and the possibility of Lin-tu Guerrier's appearance will depend on the verdict of a physician who has been attending him during a recent cold. Pete Hantz was the champion of the Davenport tournament last year. Another outstanding boxer who will be on the Dixon card is Sammy Stinson of Galesburg who was the Rockford champion last year and made an excellent showing in the Chicago finals.

Must Report at 6 o'clock
All fighters must report at the auditorium at 6:00 o'clock Monday night for instructions which will be given in the dressing rooms instead of the ring. Announcements will be made from the side of the ring, and with these two innovations it is hoped to speed up the fights.

This morning word was received from Beloit, Wis., that a team would be sent to represent that community and a squad is expected from DePue. Already 58 entries have been made and more are expected today.

Two teams of eight boxers each will be sent from the Dixon preliminaries to the Rockford semifinals to be held on Thursday evening, Feb. 9.

Dixon In Second Place In North Central Loop After Defeat By Sterling High

Improved Township Team Upsets the Hopes of the Local Cagers

CONFERENCE STANDINGS
Team—	Won	Lost	Pct.
Mendota	4	1	.800
Belvidere	4	1	.800
Dixon	3	2	.600
Sterling	2	3	.400

Dixon didn't GET beat at Sterling last night; the Sharpshooters defeated themselves, 27 to 23.

This explanation of the locals' downfall is backed by figures which show they missed 10 free throws, shot at the basket 51 times to make seven of those attempts and two players were disqualified for roughness while another went out on four infractions.

Dixon's offensive drive was slow, giving the Township defense plenty of time to organize before the push across the line. Even when the ball was worked into enemy territory, the Purple players were ice cold in attempted shots. They missed set-up after set-up under the hoop.

Sterling Improved
The Brandau-men showed themselves to be a much better organized and faster ball club than when Dixon turned them back here before the holidays. A sophomore named Bob Wolf, who played forward for the neighbors, was as slick as a whistle and faster than a man chased by a ghost.

Where Sterling shows improvements since the holidays, the locals show a decided loss of local attack—perhaps the result of too much effort in the DeKalb holiday tournament.

Dixon's defeat, viewed from all sides as an upset, and Belvidere's defeat of DeKalb, which ran free to the expected form, changed the picture in the North Central conference to put the Boone county players in a tie with Mendota for first place. Next week Belvidere invades Dixon's court.

Starting the first quarter of the heavyweight game last night, Sterling took matters in its own hands as the Township lads ran up a score of 7 to 4 over Dixon before the first period ended. Griesser's nifty one-handed shot from the free-throw circle gave the hosts the lead before Dixon tied the score on two free throws, one by Bugg on I. Wolf's first foul and the other by Moore on Wolf's second violation.

Township Takes Lead
Sterling took over the lead again with Ridge's set shot at long range and Healey scored on Page's foul. Bugg followed with two free tosses on fouls by Duham and I. Wolf. Duham missed a charity shot on Moore's first foul and Bob Wolf went into the game for his brother.

When Moore stepped over the line during a free throw a gift shot was given to Healey who made good. McNamera and Bevilacqua missed free throws on fouls by Griesser and Page's second violation gave Sterling another point on Healey's toss just before the quarter ended.

Woodyatt went in for Duham to start the second canto and Bugg missed a free throw on a foul by Ridge. Page dropped a neat set shot from long range and Griesser missed on McNamera's foul. Brown went in for Ridge.

Moore missed a gift shot on Bob Wolf's foul. Griesser missed on another by Bugg, and Bob Wolf scored on Moores violation. Moore missed when fouled by Brown and Page scored on Woodyatt's foul. Sterling followed with two field goals, one by Bob Wolf and the other by Healey before Shultz went in for Bevilacqua. Bob Wolf scored on Moore's third foul and Healey missed on Shultz infraction and the half ended.

Second Half
In the second half I. Wolf, Duham and Ridge returned for Sterling and Bevilacqua for Shultz in the Dixon lineup. Bugg scored a beautiful back twist and one-handed shot to start the scoring. Griesser's plunge netted another basket for Sterling and Duham missed on Bugg's foul. Bevilacqua scored from the corner of the court and Bugg left the game on request. Griesser made good on one of the shots.

Shultz went in for Bugg and Moore missed on Ridge's foul before R. Wolf failed to drop two to the fourth foul which sent Moore out of the contest. He was replaced by Bush. McNamera missed on Griesser's foul. Duham missed on one by Shultz and Bob Wolf scored a one-handed shot before the third stanza closed.

Dixon Rallies
In the final period Dixon began to rally, but it was too late. Kelly and Youngmark were sent into the game for McNamera and Bush and Woodyatt and Healey returned for Sterling.

Before more than a minute Youngmark was disqualified. Healey's basket on the foul counted and he made the free throw. Bush went back in for Youngmark.

Bevilacqua scored his second bucket under the hoop and Woodyatt followed with one for Sterling. McNamera replaced Kelly and I. Wolf went back for Sterling. McNamera missed on Healey's foul and Bevilacqua took a long pass from McNamera and scored near the ring.

Bob Wolf scored a beautiful long shot before Bevilacqua scored again. Shultz followed a Sterling time out with a free throw on Woodyatt's foul and Woodyatt missed on Shultz's foul.

I. Wolf scored from within the free throw circle just before he was sent out of the game on a fourth foul which would have disqualified him. Page made both of the free throws. Brown went in for I. Wolf. McNamera scored an over-hand shot and Healey missed on Bevilacqua's foul. Bush scored a free throw on R. Wolf's foul and Page missed on an infraction by Healey just as the game ended.

DIXON RESERVES WIN
As a salute to the sting of the heavyweight defeat there was the triumph of the Purple ponies, 22 to 13, to think about. But the lightweight didn't find it so easy. The half ended 7-up. Kelly was high man with 8 points. In the lightweight division Dixon stands tie with Mendota for second place with Belvidere leading, DeKalb third and Sterling last.

Fine Volley Ball Teams To Appear At Ashton Soon

(Telegraph Special Service)

Ashton, Feb. 4—An exhibition volleyball game has been planned between the Aurora and Freeport Y. M. C. A. teams at the Mills-Petrie Memorial gym on Tuesday night.

If arrangements can be made, there may be a Round-Robin meet with a team from Joliet.

Some of the players on these teams have participated in national tournaments and sports fans in Ashton and surrounding community will see a very fast breaking game.

"Weed" Farnam, the six-foot-seven spiker who will appear with the Freeport squad, was a member of the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. team when that crew placed second in the nationals.

The pupils of the seventh and eighth grades are sponsoring this affair and a small admission will be charged.

The money is to be used for supplementing class room equipment and additional books in the library. The grade school pupils have made some very attractive posters to advertise the contest and are anxious that the games be well attended.

The starting time has been set for 8:00 o'clock.

TIGER JACK FOX CUT DOWN LAST NIGHT BY MELIO

Bettina Is the Light Heavyweight Champ In N. Y. State

By Drew Middleton

New York, Feb. 4—(AP)—Well sir, Melio Bettina is the light heavyweight champion of the world in New York State. And if John Henry Lewis doesn't look right sharp the Beacon, N. Y., bully boy is liable to become boss all over the United States.

Melio cut down Tiger Jack Fox, the war-worn Spokane, Wash., Negro in 1:22 of the ninth round of their 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

Bettina, at 172½ pounds, gave 2½ to Fox.

For seven rounds Melio took second billing to the antics of about 1,000 of his fellow townspeople in the crowd of 9,947 which paid a gross gate of $18,189.85. While these rabid followers cheered, whistled, booed and stamped, he fought a floundering misdirected fight against the Tiger.

Got Organized

In the eighth he suddenly got organized and the Tiger fell apart. A left hook to the chin shook Fox and Bettina went after him. Ten punches to the face and body and the Tiger dropped to the canvas. He was up at nine but he was through.

Bettina pummeled him savagely for the rest of the round but the bell saved Fox. It didn

Think of him faring on as dear In the love of there as in the love of here.

CHICAGO MAYOR-ALTY CAMPAIGN WAXING HOTTER

Charges Hurlled Back and Forth by Candidates in Friday Rallies

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Both parties contributed today to charges and counter-charges reaching in Chicago's heated primary campaign for mayor.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, who has been attacked on the school issue in his drive for a third term, received the support of a school man, James Weber Linn, University of Chicago professor and a Horner Democratic member of the Illinois House.

Dwight H. Green, one of two Republican candidates in the February 28 primaries, denounced the two Democrats, Kelly and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

Courtney in turn said he was fighting the Kelly-Nash Democratic organization as Chicago's "greatest organized racket."

Thompson Makes Claims

The fourth candidate, Republican William Hale (Big Bill) Thompson, didn't participate in last night's oratory, but in a statement he as former mayor claimed responsibility for Chicago's biggest civic improvements.

"There is no hope for Chicago and its taxpayers until the Kelly-Nash machine is completely destroyed," Green asserted.

Then the Republican former prosecutor said Courtney had backed Kelly-Nash Democrats in November and asked him:

"Did you ever order a grand jury to investigate the Democratic officers whom you now charge with misconduct?"

Kelly pointed to his record as mayor and said:

"We have made Chicago the healthiest and safest city in the country. x x x We are 50 years ahead of the times."

Support For Kelly

While Courtney charged Kelly with boss rule and said the school board is dominated politically, Prof. Lynn said the mayor would do more for the schools than Courtney, Kelly, he announced, has agreed to have a non-partisan committee supervise future appointments to the board.

One at a time, Courtney, Green and Kelly appeared before and addressed a women's meeting. The two Democrats didn't meet, but Green got a chance to shake hands with each of them.

Another University of Chicago professor, Congressman-at-Large T. V. Smith, at another meeting spoke about need for idealism in the city council but he didn't take sides between Courtney and Kelly.

Undulant Fever Epidemic In E. Lansing, Mich.

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 4.—(AP)—The science professor who discovered a vaccine for undulant fever strove diligently today to find the origin of an epidemic of the fever in this college town which took the life of one student and caused the illness of more than 40 other persons.

Dr. F. Huddleson, research professor of bacteriology at Michigan State College, launched his investigation a month ago when the first case among the students was reported. He redoubled his efforts yesterday when A. Arthur Goldberg, 22, of Newark, N. J., succumbed.

Twenty-one other students have been under treatment for the disease. At least 20 residents of East Lansing also were afflicted.

Dr. Huddleson discovered brucella, a curative vaccine, and manufactures it in the basement of a building used for laboratory purposes. The building houses the world's largest collection of cultures of the undulant fever micrococcus. The vaccine is not manufactured commercially.

Michigan State College has been experimenting on the type of undulant fever found in cows, but Dean Ward Giltner of the veterinary division said victims of the epidemic were struck by the variety which infects goats.

The dean said the germ trail apparently led to the third floor laboratory of the building but ended there. He said none of the students who worked in the "lab" was permitted to enter the basement quarters where Dr. Huddleson produces the vaccine.

None of the other cases of the fever are serious now, although some of the patients had been seriously ill but were said to have passed the crisis.

ENROLLMENT AT STATE TEACHERS SCHOOLS MOUNTS

Registrations Quadrupled in Thirty Years Survey Reveals

Springfield, Ill.—Registrations in the five Illinois State Teachers' colleges have increased more than four times during the last thirty years, according to statistics recently prepared by the Public Information Council of those institutions. The five are Eastern Illinois State Teachers' college, DeKalb; Southern Illinois Normal University, Carbondale; Illinois State Normal University, Normal; Western Illinois State Teachers' college, Macomb.

In 1908 only 1,503 students were registered in these institutions. By 1918 the number had increased to 1,901. By 1928 there were 5,386 registrants, and in 1938 the number had grown to 6,769. This total, representatives of those institutions stated, included only those students in full-time residence on the campuses of the five institutions. Those persons registered for the many extension classes offered by these teachers' colleges were not included in this total, it was further explained.

The increase in the proportion of men to women among those registered in these institutions shows a definite professional development, according to the members of the council. In 1908 only six per cent of the total enrollment of the five state teachers' colleges were men. By 1918, 12 per cent of those enrolled were men. By 1928, 29 per cent of the registrants were men, and in 1938 the men represented 42 per cent of the total enrollment of these institutions. Development in the field of educational administration, wide expansion in the fields of agriculture and industrial arts and the general extension of education on all school levels was cited as reason for the increase in the number of men enrolled.

More Men at Southern

Southern Illinois Normal University has the largest proportion of men among the five institutions. 54 per cent of the registration of 1,878 students were men. At Eastern Illinois State Teachers' college, 48 per cent of the registrants were men. The entire enrollment in 1938 was 1037 students. At Illinois State Normal University, where the total enrollment was 1,973 students, 37 per cent of the number were men. Northern Illinois State Teachers' college reported a total enrollment during the year of 991 students. Of this number, 36 per cent were men. At Western Illinois State Teachers' college, 929 students were reported during that year, and 33 per cent of the number were men. Belief that the general trend in registration would continue toward the increase in the proportion of men to women was expressed by members of the Public Information Council.

McLean County Heads

McLean county provided Illinois State Normal University with a greater number of students than any other county. McLean county students at Normal totaled 416. The heaviest single county registration at Eastern Illinois State Teachers' college came from Coles county. 380 of Eastern's students were from Coles county. DeKalb county, which provided Northern Illinois State Teachers' college with the heaviest single county registration, sent that institution 226 students. 344 students from Franklin county were registered in Southern Illinois State Normal University. This was that institution's heaviest single county registration. The total enrollment was 1879. McDonough county, with 78 registrants in Western Illinois State Teachers' college, gave that institution its heaviest single county enrollment. The registrations in the five state teachers' colleges increased more than 28 per cent in 1938 over the enrollment for the preceding year. Continued interest in the development of means for efficient training of teachers for the state, and a general improvement in the state's public educational institutions probably will cause the enrollment in the five state teachers' colleges to continue to increase according to the Public Information Council.

Newspaper Guild is Sued by Publishers of Two Chicago Papers

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A suit for $50,000 damages and charging 45 individuals and the Chicago Newspaper Guild with libel and conspiracy to boycott was filed in Circuit court yesterday by the Chicago Evening American and the Herald and Examiner.

The Guild unit, affiliated with the CIO called a strike of its members on the papers December 5.

Most of the individual defendants were described as members of a citizen committee supporting the strike.

Attorney Edward G. Woods, who filed the suit, said the bill alleged the defendants made false and malicious statements in an effort to cause advertisers and subscribers from advertising in and reading the newspapers.

Officials of the Chicago Editorial Association, an affiliate of the A. F. of L., announced last night the signing of a contract with the Chicago American. They previously announced a contract had been signed with the Herald and Examiner.

Bloomington Scene of $300,000 Fire; Business Area Threatened

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a three-story building in the center of the business district last night, causing damage which Fire Chief Rolla Neal estimated at $300,000.

More than 70 firemen from Bloomington and Normal were unable to bring the blaze under control for five hours. The entire business sector was threatened. Shortly after the fire was discovered a power circuit was damaged and three blocks of buildings in the neighborhood were without light.

The building housed a 10-cent store, a shoe store, offices for more than 45 firms and the Elks lodge rooms. It was located only a short distance from the site where the disastrous $2,000,000 business district fire of 1900 started.

Police Chief Clyde Hibbens enlisted the aid of 15 local National Guardsmen and members of the American Legion to maintain order in the crowd which assembled.

Mount Ranier, Wash., now 14,408 feet high, once was 16,000 feet in height, before volcanic activity blew off the top.

ANTI-NEW DEAL FORCES BALANCE OF POWER TODAY

President Roosevelt's Nominations, Policies Face Fight

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Congress began the second month of the session today amid indications that Democratic factionalism was developing rapidly into a fight for party control.

Some politicians predicted events of the next few weeks would sharpen the lines of this struggle, with President Roosevelt carrying on his battle for New Deal "liberalism", Vice President Garner working quietly as chief-tain of "conservative" forces, and both sides thinking of the presidential nomination in 1940 as the prize.

There were some signs that the Democratic split had placed the balance of power in both Senate and House in the hands of the "conservatives", a situation made possible chiefly by Republican gains in the November elections.

The twin issues of foreign policy and national defense are overshadowing all other questions before Congress, but the nature and extent of the Democratic split may be reflected more quickly in congressional action on other questions.

Two nominations made by the President already have occasioned bitter protests by some Senators. One administration leader has predicted at least one of the nominations would be turned down by the Senate.

Roberts Seems Doomed

That is Roosevelt's selection of Judge Floyd H. Roberts to be a Federal District Judge in Virginia. The appointment has been opposed vigorously by Virginia Senators Glass and Byrd, both anti-administration Democrats. The judiciary committee voted overwhelmingly this week against confirmation.

Senator Harrison (D-Miss.) predicted today more than 80 per cent of the members may vote against Roberts.

Harrison also said he saw little chance for confirmation of Thomas R. Amle, former Progressive representative from Wisconsin, whom the President nominated to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Amle's critics accuse him of having "radical" economic views. The interstate commerce committee will begin hearings on the nomination Monday.

"My present mood is to vote against Mr. Amle," Harrison said. "I made the decision on the basis of what I had read about him in the newspapers and on the bills he introduced and the speeches he made in the House. My views are not conclusive at this time, of course, but my mind would have to be changed if I voted for him."

Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday he would not withdraw either the Roberts or Amle nominations.

Daily Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The hair of the human body has been studied from innumerable points of view and we know much about it. Unfortunately, there are many peculiar notions and beliefs relative to hair and many an exploiter is able to make a fortune because of the ignorance of the average person.

In the first place, all of the hair on the human body is divided by the experts into three different types: First, the hair that is the same in all people. Second, the hair that is controlled by the glandular tissues of the human body in the same manner in both men and women. Third, that in which the hair development is limited to one sex.

For example, the hair on the forehead and the fine hair which covers the bodies of all human beings at the time of birth is the same in both sexes. The hair under the arms and that associated with the organs of sex appears in normal males and females. However, the beard is normally present in man and absent in women, and hair on the chest, shoulders and back is more common in men than in women. It seems likely that these differences are entirely controlled by glandular developments and action within the body.

Another difference in hair, which is easily apparent, is its straightness or curliness. A careful study of hair under the microscope indicates that curliness is associated with a twisting of the hair shaft as it grows, but nobody knows just why hair twists on the shaft. This is probably controlled by heredity. The color of the hair also varies and seems likewise to be controlled by heredity, except when the hair is artificially bleached.

Hair differs also in its tensile strength, in thickness, in its hardness, and in other physical factors. As hair grows, the individual follicles from which each of the hairs develops pass through periods of activity and quiescence. These periods of growth are divided and make up what is called the cycle of growth. Hair on the head grows about four-tenths of a millimeter a day, and will eventually, if undisturbed, reach a length of about 65 centimeters or between 20 and 30 inches. The continuous growth goes on about 1600 days. Thus it is not possible for hair to grow to unlimited length like 25 or 30 feet, if undisturbed. Cutting the hair does not bring about an increased rate of growth. All sorts of hair restorers and hair stimulants have been tested scientifically, but all have proved completely ineffective.

Home Mortgage Loans in '38, $797,996,000

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Home mortgage lending of the nation's building and loan associations last year totaled $797,996,000, the United States Building & Loan League reported today.

Although the year's total was approximately $400,000,000 under that of 1937 when a seven-year peak was established, last year's final quarter actively was about $935,000 ahead of the corresponding 1937 period.

This, according to Morton Bodfish, executive vice president of the league, indicated potentialities for a more active winter of home building than has been the case since 1930.

California lead all states in construction loans last month with a total of $2,746,000 while Ohio, Illinois and New York each reported more than $1,000,000 advanced for this purpose.
